

Fay Freeman, ONZM, JP
Post.Grad.Dip (Dispute Resolution), BBS

Since 2001 I have been self-employed in a consultancy working mainly for local government, arts, community and sporting groups on a range of projects.

I worked with the Community Sector Taskforce on an Auckland wide project designed to increase communication and coordination across sport, arts, health, and community and disability sectors. I am currently working with the Tindall Foundation to improve capability of not for profit arts and community groups and have worked directly with arts, sports and community organisation on a range of strategic planning projects.

Other projects include undertaking a review of arts infrastructure on the North Shore, project managing a youth destinations project, project managing a Safer Communities project, undertaking a project for Waitakere City Racquets Sports Trust and consulting widely to develop a safer communities plan for Auckland City.

I also work in the area of mediating disputes within the not-for-profit sector. I have worked with a number of North Shore groups dealing mainly with employment issues, but also disputes between management committee and other members.

I have a background in local government and was employed by North Shore City Council as Community Development Manager then Leisure Services Manager before joining Manukau City Council in 1996 as Library and Community Development Services Manager then Leisure Services Manager.

I am a Justice of the Peace and affiliate member of the Arbitrators and Mediators Institute of New Zealand. I currently hold the position of President of Netball New Zealand.

I have provided consultancy services to art, sport and community groups, as well as central and local government, and provide consultancy services in relation to:

- Strategic Planning
- Governance Policies and Procedures
- Operational Policies and Procedures
- Stakeholder Relationship Analysis
- Project Management
- Feasibility Studies
